When using Photoshop, monitor the Activity Monitor to see how Photoshop is utilizing the memory and other resources on your system. (The Activity Monitor is covered in the upcoming section "Viewing all the monitors" for help if Photoshop consumes all the memory on your system.) Before attempting to use Photoshop, you should make sure that you have the resources to run the program. Photoshop provides users with a variety of features to choose from, such as Smoothing: The smoothing tool makes your photo's edges and contours more smooth and continuous. There are several options for smoothing, such as Radius (which defines how much a pixel is smoothed) and the Radius percentage for in- and out-of-range pixels. Auto-Enhance: Auto-Enhance does some of the work for you, such as repairing small flaws, reducing red-eye, and more. You also can choose an option to apply to the entire image. Red-Eye Correction: This feature corrects red-eye by removing and replacing areas of photos containing the red eye. The method used depends on the strength of the red-eye you see on the photo. Motion Blur: This feature simulates the effect of moving objects in your image. Blur Reduction: This feature reduces blur in your images — whether it be the result of camera shake or movement of the lens. You have several options to blur, including Amount, Blur Direction, and Blur Type. Amount controls how much blur is created and Blur Direction indicates the direction in which you would like the blur to be applied. Blur Type controls the method used to create the blur, such as Motion Blur and Lens Blur. Effects: Using the effects tools, you can add special effects like a cool mirror image effect or warp the image around its edges to create a mirrored image. Cropping Cropping is another important tool when using Photoshop. Cropping limits the portion of your image that you can use and is used for image manipulation. It is also a quick way to isolate a specific portion of your image. Cropping is essential to making selective edits to a photo, such as taking out a person from a portrait, which you can do in Figure 2-5. Images can easily become distorted when they're used to make changes or edits in Photoshop. You can correct distortion by using cropping techniques. Here are the cropping options: Crop: To crop images

Image caption Cars were forced to stop in the middle of the road in St Asaph Police forces in North Wales are highlighting a "major incident" after part of the A55 at St Asaph, Denbighshire, was blocked for several hours. Motorists faced traffic chaos with vehicles being forced to stop in the middle of the road at around 10:20 BST. The road remains closed, with motorists advised to take the A55 or A55(M) in both directions and use the existing A548. Police in the area have said it will be closed for several hours. Officers from Wrexham and Flintshire said it was due to a road improvement scheme on the A55 between the junction with the A548 and the A5. The diversion was in place until 13:30 BST but police said it would reopen at 15:00. The network of streets is busy with residents and commuters linking the A55 to the North Wales Expressway at St Asaph and to the north coast.

BEIJING — The Chinese-owned casino company that operates two of Las Vegas's newest gambling establishments is bankrolling a series of ads for President Donald Trump that are likely to anger U.S. casino owners, a sizable chunk of whom already view Trump's views as detrimental to their businesses. MGM Resorts International is spending as much as $7.5 million on an advertising campaign in Nevada, where it owns the Mandalay Bay and Encore resorts, according to agreements disclosed on the company's website, and it is selling the ads on behalf of two pro-Trump Super PACs — America First Action and Great America PAC. In an unusual twist, the casinos are funding the campaign, which includes television, radio and digital ads on social media, according to the disclosures. U.S. casinos are normally barred from involvement in U.S. presidential campaigns. The company is not directly backing Trump's campaign, but is co-ordinating with the two Super PACs, which were formed a few weeks ago. The ads are in line with Trump's policies and rhetoric and are likely to reflect the views of Steve Wynn, the Las Vegas casino magnate and Republican fundraiser who is chairman and chief executive of MGM Resorts. Wynn has discussed Trump during a U.S. Senate committee hearing last week, when he praised the candidate's property tax proposal as one that

More than 150 survivors of last year's military jet crash in Indonesia are on the ground at an airfield in Jakarta. Foreign rescue workers were today carrying 20 bodies to the airport aboard a large cargo plane. Army divers were still searching for bodies underwater. The crash occurred when a plane was preparing to land on the runway in Bandung, Indonesia, a town 120 miles west of the capital. The five-member crew crashed the C-130 Hercules onto an apartment building, killing all on board. The Chinese-made plane, carrying mostly officers, crashed into the apartment building. The cause of the crash is not yet known. No Indonesians were killed in the crash. It's just good journalism. We think that even as we continue to champion what we feel are the best, most important stories about how police use force and interact with the public. The Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court ruled on Monday that police had violated state wiretapping law by failing to follow an investigative judge's orders to disclose certain material to reporters in a criminal case. In a split ruling, the state's highest court said the police department had to disclose certain recordings and transcripts of conversations to reporters. The decision upholds a ruling last year by a Lowell District Court judge and a lawyer for the state's highest court said it was a victory for the free press. The case centered on a reporter at the Patriot Ledger who had wanted the tapes and other documents relating to the search warrant and the police department's internal affairs investigation. The officer who wrote the search warrant had lied about when he did so. He issued the warrant on April 1, 2008, and it was served a little over a month later. In the meantime, however, the newspaper made public the search warrant request and the officer's affidavit to obtain it. The officer was later identified as Sgt. James L. Maccabees. He was placed on administrative leave after the search and the internal affairs investigation began. The Patriot Ledger sought access to the tapes and transcripts as well as to the internal affairs investigation report. The records were redacted in a manner that the Patriot Ledger was able to discern in some conversations. The newspaper also sought to have the search warrant application materials unsealed. A state law enforcement officer, Lt. Jane Haskins, said the materials could harm police investigations because they could reveal when the information was obtained.
